

In 1963, A Wrinkle in Time won the Newbery Medal. This prestigious award is given to “the most distinguished contribution to American literature for children.” This book also won other awards, including the Sequoyah Children’s Book Award and the Lewis Carroll Shelf Award, both in 1965. In fact, it could have easily won the award below—that is, if this award actually existed.

Awarded to A Wrinkle in Time by Madeleine L’Engle

Awarded by: S.T.A.R.S. (Society Teaching Awesome Reading in the Sciences)

Award Criteria

- The book must be a work of fiction that includes scientific concepts.
- The story should include at least one extraterrestrial setting.
- The book’s content must be of interest for young people, ages 8-12.

Former Award Recipients

The Little Prince by Antoine de Saint-Exupery
Miss Pickerell Goes to Mars by Ellen MacGregor
The Wonderful Flight to the Mushroom Planet by Eleanor Cameron

